ADDRESSES ADVERTISERS

Sage of East Aurora Delivers Unique Address on "Getting Together."

Came to Richmond last night Elbert Hubbard, the sage of East Aurora—head of the long hair and flowing beard and picturesque physiognomy—made a talk on "Getting Together," before 300 advertising men and their friends gathered in the auditorium of the Jefferson Hotel. He digressed at will to cull aphorisms from religion, art and commerce, and provided a two-hour entertainment that was out of the ordinary.

There is only one Elbert Hubbard. As a writer, he is a genius. As a safety razor, or as a publisher of pocket-size literature, his work bears the imprint of his personality—a personality that is substantial, or phrasology and phrasing upon whether one relishes the blunt and unusual or the carefully put and temperate.

Readers of the Era and the Philistine found Hubbard's address about what they expected it to be. It preached the doctrine of getting together, working together, living together—to use the speaker's own words. "The doctrine of sanity is the ability to work with other people. In the older phrasology the same doctrine is stated: 'In union there is strength.'"

HAS MARKED CONTEMPT
Mr. Hubbard combined a wonderful and unorthodox vocabulary with a marked contempt for tradition and usage. He delights in clothing a truism in startling garb, and sent several dozen stinging sentences that he last night to good applause. If his address lacked coherence, the deficiency was overlooked by an audience who came to hear high-class vaudeville and heard it.

The address was given under the auspices of the Richmond Advertisers' Club, and the proceeds will be devoted to paying the expenses of the delegation that will attend the national convention of the club which will be held at Toronto. The address contained a liberal sprinkling of women.

For the learned professions—law, medicine and theology—Mr. Hubbard showed scant respect. The minister who is not more interested in social and living conditions than in mansions in the sky, he made it clear, was an unnecessary evil. The growing participation of clergymen in betterment work of this character, he thought, is the most encouraging sign that the preacher's calling has shown in years.

TAKES FALL OUT OF LAWYERS AND DOCTORS
In like manner he took falls out of the legal profession, which, he said, was as a whole no more interested in justice than the medical profession as a whole was interested in health. He said that a good portion of the fact that the physicians of high standing nowadays have reached their position by keeping people well, and that the most successful lawyers are not those who are seen in the courtroom, but those who advise their clients how to keep out of court.

Mr. Hubbard paid his respects to the administration with a tribute to President Wilson, whom he called a general of high and honest type, but who, he thought, lacked the practical qualifications that a man in his position needs. If he had his way, he said, he would place at the head of affairs in this country a general manager of the rank of his business.

For the position of general manager of the United States, said Mr. Hubbard, he would pick as first choice Henry Ford, of Detroit, maker of the famous motor car that bears his name. If he were not available, he said, he would choose President Patterson, of the National Cash Register Company. If Mr. Patterson was not to be had, Comptroller John Skelton Williams would be his third choice, with James J. Hill next in line.

HAS WHOLESOME RESPECT FOR BIG BUSINESS
Mr. Hubbard spoke with a wholesome respect for big business, and with still more respect for the transportation business. It was his opinion, he said, that much of the present industrial depression, with its consequent problem of the unemployed, was traceable to pernicious attempts at regulation by the Federal government and to the hostile acts that have robbed enterprise of its courage. He hoped, he said, that the railroads would get the 1 per cent freight rate increase, because it would mean a 25 per cent increase in renewed confidence.

He was a philosopher and futurist, a hotel-keeper and a farmer-builder. Mr. Hubbard is a preacher of no mean attainment. He preached a cheerful doctrine of industry, regularity and there his contempt for the highbrow and the so-called leisure class.

SOME OPINIONS OF HUBBARD'S OWN MAKE
There are a few that might have been taken bodily from the margins of the Philistine:
"A highbrow knows everything, but the obvious, and can do everything, but make a living."
"An executive is a man who decides quickly and is sometimes right."
"A business man is a man who looks a pay roll in the eye and kites checks—the fifth regional reserve bank city ought to know that."
"Anything that does not pay is immoral."

"Woman was discovered at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876 by a man named Remington."
"Thomas Jefferson was the first, last and only Democrat—with him died the race."
"The courthouse is a place where justice is dispensed with."
"The tidings of joy that preachers used to bring—'everybody is going to get it'—are all dead five minutes a day—the sin lies in exceeding the speed limit."
"Every one of us knows what is right, but we haven't yet quite got the technique."

Carrie Dickinson, colored, was arrested last night on a charge of stealing $6 from Fleming White.

HENRY A. ATKINSON DIES AT HIS HOME

Former Member of State Senate
Passes Away After Long Illness.

WAS WOUNDED IN BATTLE

Took Prominent Part in Politics of State for Many Years.

HENRY A. ATKINSON.

Former State Senator Henry A. Atkinson, who represented Richmond at one time in the General Assembly, died yesterday, after a long illness, at his home, 811 East Grace Street. He was sixty-nine years old. Death had been expected for several days, and the members of his family were gathered at his side when the end came.

The funeral will be conducted tomorrow afternoon from St. Peter's Catholic Church, and the interment will be made in Hollywood Cemetery. Senator Atkinson was well known and active in the political life of Virginia twenty years ago. He was associated with the late Senator John W. Daniel in the reconstruction battles of the Democratic and Republican Legislatures in the same election that put Major Daniel into the United States Senate.

He was born in Richmond on May 2, 1845, and was the son of Henry A. and Grace E. Atkinson. On November 4, 1868, he married Miss Belle R. Dolson, daughter of William H. Dolson, of Hays, Dobson, of Gloucester County. He leaves, besides his widow, one son, Dr. Marmaduke Atkinson; three daughters, Mrs. Sidney J. Dudley, Miss Ethel Walker Atkinson and Miss Virginia Atkinson; and two sisters, Mrs. John A. Plett and Mrs. O. A. Gentry, of Mathews County, and the following grandchildren: Arabella Hays Dolson, Margaret A. Dudley, Henry A. Dudley and Henry A. Atkinson, III.

WAS WOUNDED IN CONFEDERATE SERVICE
When barely sixteen years of age, Senator Atkinson, in 1862, enlisted in Parker's celebrated battery, afterward serving in Company F, Third Virginia Cavalry, under the command of General Hugh Lee's Division. He was wounded in the left leg in the second battle at Spotsylvania Courthouse, and captured as he lay on the field. He was taken to the Federal Prison, at Elmira, N. Y. He was paroled only a short while before the fall of Richmond. During his lifetime he was a member of R. E. Lee Camp, No. 1, United Confederate Veterans.

At the close of the war he resumed his education at Richmond College and the University of Virginia, entering the practice of law in Richmond. He was associated in practice with Marmaduke Johnson, a famous criminal lawyer, and participated with Mr. Johnson in the defense of Jeter Phillips. He was a member of the Virginia Bar Association and of the American Bar Association.

In 1870 he was elected Commonwealth's attorney of Henrico County, and a year later made county superintendent of the Conservative party. He served in the House of Delegates, and in the Senate from Richmond and served two terms. Senator Atkinson fathered many valuable measures, and acted as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He was prominent in his early life in the fraternal societies. He was a thirty-third degree Mason, and the organizer of the local lodge of the Royal Arcanum and the Knights of Pythias.

Federal Officers Get Laxton.
Ernest Laxton, suspected of post-office robberies in Botetourt County, was turned over to the Federal authorities yesterday. The man was arrested by Detectives Bryant and Smith on Thursday. He is forty years old, and according to the police has served time in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta for a similar offense. Two other suspects are held in the case.

Hirschberg Meeting.
John Hirschberg, candidate for reelection to the Administrative Board, addressed a gathering of his supporters in the auditorium of the Chimborazo School last night.

HOBART HARE IS DROWNED WHILE BATHING IN RIVER

Ten-Year-Old Boy Goes Beyond His Depth and Was Unable to Reach Shore.

Hobart Hare, ten years old, of Bluefield, W. Va., was drowned in the James River yesterday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock, while in bathing with a friend. Able only to swim a few strokes, he found himself beyond his depth, and could not swim the distance to shore nor make way against the current. His comrades watched him helplessly from the shore, and then, thoroughly frightened, picked up his clothes and fled the scene.

The accident occurred a quarter of a mile below the new pump-house, and the boy gave the alarm to the employees there. Hobart's body was recovered and the police were notified. Policeman Tiller went to the scene, and, after a short investigation, notified Coroner Taylor. Coroner Taylor said that it was a plain case of accidental drowning, and the body was turned over to Billy's undertaking establishment.

Hobart Hare came here recently to visit his sister, Mrs. R. N. Walworth, 2126 West Main Street. Mrs. Walworth was prostrated when she learned of her little brother's death. The body will be taken to-day to the boy's home.

WILL REVIEW CARNAHAN SUIT AGAINST RAILROAD

Supreme Court Grants Writ of Error in Case Where Workmen Was Awarded $25,000 Damages.

The State Supreme Court of Appeals decided yesterday to review the proceedings in the case of Asa P. Carnahan, a fireman, against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, from the Circuit Court of Hanover County, in which court Carnahan was awarded a verdict of $25,000 damages for the loss of a leg in a wreck. A writ of error and supersedeas was granted, and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway required to give bond in the sum of $30,000.

Carnahan was a locomotive fireman in the employ of the railway. In the collision of a "dead" passenger train and a freight train at Dowell, on March 2, 1913, he was severely injured, the injuries resulting in the loss of a leg. He brought suit against the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company in March, 1914, for $35,000 damages.

In the petition for appeal, counsel for the Chesapeake and Ohio lay stress on the amount of damages allowed for the loss of a limb, declaring it excessive and unjust. It is also asserted that Carnahan neglected to use the vigilance expected of the occupants of the locomotive cab.

The court refused a writ of error in the petition of Gertrude P. Willis from the decision of the Circuit Court of Fauquier County in her suit against her husband, Harry S. Willis. A writ of error and supersedeas was granted in the case of K. T. Crawley, appellant, against Elvira E. Glaze and Humphrey Glaze, from the decision of the Chancery Court of Richmond.

The court also granted a writ of error and supersedeas in the case of Frank Wright and Louisa Wright, appellants, against Maggie G. Rabey, brought up from the Circuit Court of Nansemond County.

United States Circuit Court of Appeals.
The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reconvened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, with Circuit Judges Pritchard, Knapp and Wood. District Judge McDowell in attendance.

The following case was argued: No. 1147—Margaret H. Williamson, plaintiff in error, vs. Katherine Osen-ton, defendant in error; error to the circuit court of the United States, W. Va. W. E. Chilton, Charleston, W. Va., for the plaintiff in error, and R. G. Linn and C. Hall, Charleston, W. Va., for the defendant in error. Continued.

COOLER WEATHER COMES WITH NO PROMISE OF RAIN

Conditions Improve in Richmond, but Drought Reports in Country Are Serious.

With a drop of seven degrees in the thermometer, the weather in Richmond yesterday was much cooler than it had been in the two days previous, and there was a consequent relief in the suffering which had been general on the days before. The minimum temperature yesterday was 72 degrees, one degree above normal for the day. At noon the mercury had climbed to 80 degrees, and three hours later had reached to 85 degrees, which was the maximum up to 8 o'clock last night.

Montgomery, Ala., which has been a close second to Richmond in the record-breaking heat of this week, was much hotter than Richmond yesterday, the thermometer in that city registering 94 degrees. Raleigh, N. C., was but 2 degrees behind, while in Savannah, Ga., the thermometer was at the same degree as in Montgomery.

There is as yet no definite sign of rain, and it seems as if May will break the record for dryness as well as for heat. The showers which visited Texas during the early part of the week and promised to extend over the Atlantic seaboard, failed of fulfillment, and the drought in Virginia is becoming severe.

Case Continued.

Magistrate H. S. Sunday yesterday continued the case against three Henrico County youths, who were arrested charged with being disorderly near the home of James Leflow, until Monday, in order that necessary witnesses might be summoned. The boys arrested on the warrant were Hughie Gresham, Alfred Fry and William Johnson.

WILL BRING HOBECK BACK TO RICHMOND FOR TRIAL

Man Accused of Stealing Lunch Also Believed by Police to Be Wanted in Charlottesville.

Armed with requisition papers, Police Sergeant W. E. Waymire left last night for Newark, N. J., to bring back to this city for trial, William C. Hobbeck, who was arrested there on Thursday night as he was about to claim an engine said to have been stolen several weeks ago from a lunch owned by Frank Wilmouth, of South Richmond. From information received from the police of the Ohio Railway, Hobbeck will come back for trial voluntarily.

The arrest of Hobbeck was the work principally of Captain McMahon, head of the local detective force, who traced the man by means of the shipment of the machinery from Williamsburg to Lynchburg and from there to Newark. In his arrest, it is believed by the police, the third man in the recent robbery of the Charlottesville and Ohio Railway, has been found.

Hobbeck, it is believed, was aided by two other men in the theft of the Wilmouth lunch from its moorings just below South Richmond. The robbery occurred three weeks ago, and the abandoned boat, stripped to the hull, was found last week in a creek near Williamsburg.

Mr. Wilmouth was first apprised of the loss by friends who saw the launch as it passed City Point. He notified the police, and the authorities of Newport News and Norfolk were asked to keep a lookout for the boat. When the deserted craft was discovered, Captain McMahon got busy and traced its engine to Lynchburg, and from there to Newark.

The trio of men, all of whom are natives of the Southside, are believed by the police to have been on their way to Lynchburg to claim the engine when they burglarized the Charlottesville station. The celebration at Cleveland Children were caught, but the third escaped. It is said that the two prisoners implicated Hobbeck.

A special grand jury was convened yesterday by order of Judge Ernest H. Wells, and an indictment was found against Hobbeck. This was necessary in order to get the requisition papers.

PLAN BIG CELEBRATION

Highland Park Preparing for "Safe and Sound" Fourth of July.
Plans for Highland Park's safe and sane Fourth of July celebration are already being made, and according to the preliminary arrangements, as made by Charles W. Vaughan, chairman of the celebration committee, the events staged this year will be immensely elaborate.

First there will be a baseball game between the "Uptowns" and the "Downtowns," and this will probably occupy the greater part of the morning. The events for the afternoon call for the baseball throwing by women, egg and potato races, pie-eating contests, a tug-of-war, tennis, speech-making, paper balloon flights and a family picnic. The celebration will take place in the town park, and a band will be secured to play during the day.

Married in Washington.
Marriage licenses were issued in Washington yesterday to the following Richmond couples: Herman Richter and Madeline M. Sheen; Charles N. Wells and Ruby L. La Belle; Lester R. Wickline and Stella Schwarzhberg.

JUDGE KEITH SETS AT REST RUMORS OF RETIREMENT

Is in Good Health, Likes His Work and Sees No Reason to Give It Up.

Judge James Keith, president of the State Supreme Court of Appeals, set at rest yesterday the rumors of his resignation which have been current around the Capitol since the passage by the General Assembly last winter of the bill allowing Supreme Court judges to retire on a generous pension at seventy years of age.

"No, sir, I have no intention of resigning," said Judge Keith yesterday in answer to the question, "Do you intend to retire?" "I am in good health, I like my work and see no reason why I should give it up. Of course, I thought of resigning in a general way when the bill was passed, but I can assure you that the thought has passed my mind."

"It will be some time," said he, with a twinkle in his eye, "before you will be mentioning people as my successor." The bill allowing Supreme Court judges to retire on pension will become a law on June 15. It provides that any member of the court, after twelve consecutive years of service, may retire at the age of seventy years, and receive annually three-fifths of the salary he drew as judge. When the bill was under discussion it was currently reported that two members of the court might retire when it took effect.

Upon investigation, however, it was found that Judge Keith is the only member of the court who is eligible for that time to receive the benefits of the act. Two years must elapse before Judge Richard H. Caldwell and Judge George M. Harrison can qualify for retirement under the terms of the new law. Judge John A. Buchanan, whose term expires on February 1, 1915, declined to stand for re-election, and will be succeeded by Judge Joseph L. Kelly, of Bristol. Judge Stauffer, of White, will not be eligible to take advantage of the new retirement law for several years.

MAY BUILD SWIMMING POOL

Administrative Board Calls for Estimates on Municipal Bathing Place.
The Board of Public Works was directed yesterday by the Administrative Board to prepare plans and estimates on the cost of constructing a concrete swimming pool in William Byrd Park between the big spring and the lake. The pool is to be supplied with water by the spring, receiving the water by gravity and discharging it by gravity into the lake.

The construction of a public swimming pool in William Byrd Park is one of the long-cherished public bathing facilities that that park now offers. Aside from the river, the city now has no outdoor public bathing facilities. Most cities of Richmond's size, it is stated, have well-regulated swimming places, either in rivers and lakes or in artificially constructed pools.

Suit Instituted.
Suit for $5,000 was brought in the Law and Equity Court yesterday by Richard Hare, Jr., of the public bath, B. West and Oscar D. Pitts. No declaration was filed.

The court declared a non-suit in the case of the Pneumatic Conduit Traction Company against Thomas Latham, in which the plaintiff sued for $1,100.

Marriage License.
License to wed was issued yesterday by the clerk of the Hustings Court to Cornelius Hickey and Marguerite M. Papiella.
